God kissed a seed; there came a flower—
A bud, a leaf—one day a bower—
Because it opened every cell
To receive of God—and tell
The world 'twas not its thought
By which the miracle was wrought—
It's just being open to the good—to God
That brings us upward—from the sod.

The Day View Reading Club held its regular bi-monthly meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Henry on West Division street. President, Miss Marie Twitchell, presided over a short business period. On members responded to the call with some facts about aviation. Mrs. W. P. Agee, Jr., gave some interesting events of the month of January and presented the following on her program: Mrs. W. Saner gave a biographical sketch of George Washington; Mrs. J. A. Henry told about the Lincoln Memorial; Mrs. John S. Gibson, Sr., read an interesting paper on Longfellow, with comments on his home and other historical points which she had visited. During the social period the hostess served a delicious salad plate with hot chocolate. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. John S. Gibson, Sr., on March 5.

Mrs. Tulley Henry entertained at an evening bridge last evening at her home on S. Pine street. The occasion was a surprise celebration of her husband's birthday anniversary. The guests met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell and at 8:30 migrated to the home of the honoree on South Pine street, bringing gifts and best wishes. Bridge was played from four tables with the tallies and score pads observing the George Washington motif. High score prizes for the ladies went to Mrs. James R.

Henry and Mrs. Lloyd Spencer and the gentlemen to Mr. Robert Campbell and Mr. Max Cox. The honoree was presented with a remembrance gift. Following the game the hostess served delicious refreshments.

ETHLYNE CLAIRE

That cherubic young gentleman, Mr. Daniel Cupid, has gone on another matrimonial spree and, as a result, wedding bells will soon begin to toll, especially out Hollywood way. Ethlyne Claire, Wampas Baby star, and Ernest Westmore, motion picture studio employe, are scheduled to say "I Do" on Feb. 21. One of Hollywood's biggest weddings is to be held the following day when Cecilia De Mille, daughter of the movie director, becomes Mrs. Francis E. Calvin. Sally Eilers, the cinema actress, and Hoot Gibson, movie cowboy, announced their engagement recently and expect to be married soon. Helen Menken, the stage star, and Bert Lytell, the actor, also are preparing to move their belongings under the same roof, and all Europe is gossiping about the betrothal of Edda Mussolini, daughter of Italy's dictator, to Galeazzo Ciano, of the Italian embassy at the Vatican.

Passion Players Will Tour State

Frieburg German Company Coming Back to Arkansas.

One of the most successful dramatic events ever witnessed in America is the presentation of the Frieburg Passion Play by the Frieburg Players of Baden, Germany. Since early in the 13th century the residents of this medieval village have been producing the Passion Play every ten years, until it has become an established institution with them. Last year they were induced to bring the production to America, and are now presenting it at a number of Southern cities before they return to the homeland.

The first presentation was given last year at St. Joseph, Mo. In January, they appeared at Jackson, Miss. followed by an engagement of six days at Little Rock in the auditorium of the Little Rock High school during the week of January 27. There were eight performances, witnessed by thousands of people, many of whom came from distant sections of the State. Practically every seat was sold and the latter half of the week hundreds of people were unable to obtain admission.

Following the Little Rock engagement the company played Shreveport, La., Amarillo, Texas, and Hutchinson, Kansas. In response to urgent requests by The Men of the Churches and affiliated organizations, the Players agreed to return to Arkansas for a series of three engagements to enable all the people of the State who desire to do so to witness this, the greatest of the world's tragedies. The company will present the play at Fort Smith the week of February 25, at the Masonic Temple, under the auspices of the Men's Fellowship Bible Class of the Central Presbyterian church. They will then come to North Little Rock, appearing in the auditorium of the new High school building, March 3, 4 and 5, with a matinee Wednesday; they will then proceed to El Dorado for March 6, 7 and 8, with a matinee Saturday under the auspices of the Bureau of Charities.

Student Fiddles While Flames Leap About Him

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Frank Juvenal, a junior in the Chicago School of Music, treated his dormitory brothers to an old Roman custom. Franklin's violin practice keeps him in the basement a good deal—at the request of his housemates.

He became so interested in his work yesterday, he laid aside the cigarette he had been smoking. As he scraped through his exercises, flames shot from the waste basket into which the rag had fallen. When several excited students reached the scene, part of the basement was ablaze, and Franklin was fiddling away, nonchalantly, unmindful of the conflagration. It would be superfluous to add that his new nickname is Nero.

Italy's 26 plants for the production of artificial silk had an output of 62,855,498 pounds for the first nine months of 1929. A gain over the previous year's output of 44,481,855.

Cotton in the New South

THOSE were interesting figures given the Agricultural Outlook Conference yesterday by C. C. Spragins, on the change in Hempstead county farming in the last twenty-five years.

Twenty-five years ago this was a one-crop county, he said, with bank deposits of half a million dollars. Today it is one of the finest examples of diversified farming in all Arkansas, shipping out watermelons, canteloupes, radishes, tomatoes and potatoes by the carload. And its bank deposits have increased six times.

But the most significant fact Mr. Spragins reported was that our county is still a major producer of cotton, running as much as 22,000 bales a year. Cotton is no longer our only crop, but is still our greatest cash crop.

County farmers are hearing a great deal nowadays about the need of improving the quality of their cotton, and much attention is being centered on the Arkansas Rowden variety. It will be largely planted this coming season. A tremendous effort will be made to cut down acreage and bring up the quality—for it looks like a sharp break in cotton prices next fall.

The safe way around disaster is explained by Carl Williams, member of the Federal Farm Board, who writes: "The one remedy is to plant those varieties which produce tenderable cotton, that is, cotton above seven-eighths of an inch in length.

There may have been a time when short staple cotton could readily have been sold, but foreign competition today is able to supply all of the short staple the world wants, at a price far below that upon which the American grower can live.

"India has been increasing its production as well as its quality of cotton. It is selling cotton today to English spinners at two and one-half cents a pound less than American cotton. The labor in India which grows this cotton gets 15 cents a day, and India cotton can be shipped to English spinners at two and one-half cents a pound less than American cotton. The labor in India which grows this cotton gets 15 cents a day, and India cotton can be shipped to European mills as cheaply as American cotton.

"We have now reached the point in the United States where quality must go up and acreage go down. The world wants and will buy American cotton fifteen-sixteenth to eleven-sixteenth in staple length. It doesn't want non-tenderable cotton and won't buy except at a ruinous price."

The Price of Prosperity

IT WOULD be interesting to study the exact relationship that exists in America between prosperity and crime.

It has been stated that a city which enjoys a business boom is bound to suffer, also, an increase in its crime. Just how far this assertion holds good is problematical; but there are signs that it is true to a great extent, at least.

Chicago, of course, is the city everyone thinks of when crime is mentioned. And this rule seems to apply directly to Chicago's situation.

Chicago has been an enormously busy city, growing by leaps and bounds. All kinds of industries have centered there. There has always been "something doing" there. Job-hunters have flocked in from all parts of the country.

This has made for a large floating population, unstable and without roots. The ranks of the gunmen and bootleggers are easily and quickly recruited from such a field. Furthermore, under such circumstances money is plentiful. There is money for liquor, for gambling and other underworld commodities. There is money, too, to be taken by main force by bandits.

Detroit seems to bear out the theory also. The automobile industry has made Detroit an immensely busy place. It has been expanding rapidly for years. And, like Chicago, it has drawn on the rest of the nation for a huge floating population.

Consequently, one need not be surprised by the charges that are now being made in connection with Detroit's police department. If half of these charges are true, Detroit has an underworld situation as bad as Chicago's. There are the same stories of friendship between policemen and gangsters. There are the same boldness and daring on the part of the underworld.

Detroit and Chicago, then, apparently bear out this theory. It is a matter that ought to get detailed study from our criminologists. Lawlessness of the Chicago-Detroit variety is a high price to pay for prosperity.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service-Writer

WASHINGTON.—President Hoover, whose interest in child welfare is a matter of common knowledge and who wants appropriations for child health work to be continued under the Sheppard-Towner Maternity act, has temporarily held up resumption of federal co-operation with the states through his desire to reorganize the administration of the act.

The president apparently failed to foresee the difficulties likely to arise in carrying out his recommendations.

Under the Maternity act Congress appropriated $1,240,000 a year to be distributed among the states which agreed to match their share with an equal appropriation of their own, and all the states except Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut eventually came to co-operate with the Children's Bureau here in child health conferences and educational work. But the act of appropriation ran out June 30, 1929, and Congress had neglected to make another one.

Made Bigger Appropriations

The work among mothers and prospective mothers was brought to a standstill in several states, but about 15 states appropriated larger sums than ever from their own treasuries that the work might not suffer. These included Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont and Wisconsin, according to the Children's Bureau.

Time was when the super-patriots stationed here used to attack the Children's Bureau and the Maternity act as instruments of bolshevism which were undermining American institutions, thus placing them in a class with child labor laws, free speech, public utility regulation, old age pensions and various humanitarian legislation.

But there have been no yelps of that sort since Mr. Hoover, who has been a sore disappointment to the most radical super-patriots, recommended bigger appropriations for the bureau and the continuance of the purpose of the Sheppard-Towner act. The super-patriots have not yet collected enough courage to brand Mr. Hoover as a Red, although some of them say that's what Secretary of State Stimson is. The president, however, said in his last message that Congress should consider the advisability of confining the use of federal funds by states to the building up of county and local public health units, which the outlay should go, Congressman John G. Cooper of Ohio, who, along with Senator Judd of Washington in the upper house, had introduced a bill to revive the Sheppard-Towner appropriations, went to see Hoover and found out that was what he meant. The president also wants the states to contribute twice the amount of the federal appropriation, and the counties an equal sum, according to Cooper.

Hoover is said to have been greatly impressed with the efficient operation of some of the county health units which he saw in the south during his flood relief work. He has asserted that a highly developed health unit consists of at least a physician, sanitary engineer and nurse, plus, in some cases, a nurse handling problems of maternity and children.

Germany Tops World In Air Mark Tilt; U. S. Next

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—American aviation is wondering whether the world records tell the tale of supremacy of the air.

Of 113 official records newly listed for 1930 by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale and the National Aeronautic association, for all types of aircraft, the United States holds but 28.

Germany leads with 43 records to her credit. The other holders include France, 25; Great Britain, 8; Switzerland, 3; Italy and Hungary, 2 each; and Poland and Czechoslovakia, 1 each.

The United States is supreme in a single class, refueling of airplanes, with the duration record of 420 hours and 17 minutes, set by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien, and the distance mark of 3,283.26 miles, made by Capt. Lowell H. Smith and J. P. Richter.

A. H. Orlebar's feat of traveling 357,723 miles an hour gives Great Britain the maximum speed record; Will Neuenhofen, of Germany, holds the altitude record of 41,791 feet.

Lieut. Appollo Soucek gave America the seaplane altitude record of 38,549 feet and plans an assault on Neuenhofen's mark. Lieut. T. G. W. Settle and Ensign W. Business hold four balloon records after a single three-day flight.

Klondike "Gold Book" To Show 20,000 Names

SEATTLE, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Names of approximately 20,000 persons who mined the Klondike trails more than 33 years ago will appear in the "Gold Book" to be published prior to the Stampede convention in Vancouver, B. C., next August.

What the Social register is to society, the "Gold Book" will be to the Sourdoughs. If plans of the Alaska Sourdoughs' Association materialize it will be the final word on the qualifications of the title "sourdough."

E. L. Martin, president of the association, has announced that more than 8,000 names have been received and passed for the book, with men and women registered "from every state in the union, as well as every dependency of the United States, most of the Central and South American countries, Europe, the United Kingdom, Asia and the Orient."

The Hoops of Hoosierdom

INDIANA has given the world a score of good wisecrackers. The banks of the Wabash have furnished the locale for some of our best barbershop ballads. But you can forget that right now. A new basketball champion is about to be crowned and it's an affair of state.

The matter is decided by sections. How many sections do you suppose an elimination tournament of this sort is divided into? About 127. Maybe 207. Well, the correct answer is 64. The hoops are pretty busy when they are 64 sectional tournaments going on simultaneously in a state the size of Indiana. But they play the game there as in no other state in the country.

Heroes of the Court

BASKETBALL is the state sport in Indiana. Jimmy Phelan, veteran Purdue into a football championship last fall, but when Phelan went to Purdue to begin coaching some years before, he had a whole of a job working up interest in the gridiron. Football was a fine game, but the boys in the short pants who could throw that round ball through that ring were the heroes.

A citizen of Indiana would rather pay taxes on bonded indebtedness for a basketball court than for a new city hall. Even though they take their politics pretty seriously on the banks of the Wabash, a city councilman could get away with almost anything on the night of a basketball game.

Gaps in the Ranks

BOBBY JONES will be there when the golfers gather at the docks in Spring to sail for England but there will be important faces miss-

DID YOU KNOW THAT

BOBBY JONES' dearest desire is the British amateur, though he doesn't say so. That's the only important one Bob never has won. Leo Durocher, who has been sent to the Reds along with Bob Meusel, of the Yankees, was regarded by Miller Huggins as the best fielding shortstop he ever had seen in the majors. Art Fletcher and Charley O'Leary, great shortstops in their day, said the same thing. Hug always insisted that if Leo would adopt a style of hitting that Hug suggested, he would bat .300. Durocher tried, but never could make it. Maybe Dan Howley can impart the magic touch. Bill Hartwell, a brunet who acted as sparring partner to Phil before one of Scott's swoons in New York, says he used to be given the office by Jimmy Johnston to lay off abusing his lordship. "Ah could have busted him loose from America if they had let me go on about mah business," says Bill.

He Presides At Dry Law Hearing

Representative George S. Graham, above, of Pennsylvania, a Republican, is chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, now holding the first congressional hearing in 10 years on the merits of prohibition.

Miss Louise Gross, below, chairman of the Women's Federation Union, a group opposed to the dry law, was one of the many witnesses called to testify.

Razorback Cagers Leave For Texas

To Determine Whether Arkansas Will Win Fifth Championship

FAYETTEVILLE, Feb. 20.—Ten members of the University of Arkansas basketball ball squad left last night for College Station, Tex., where they will open a two-game series Friday night with Texas A. & M. This is the last road trip of the season and will determine whether the Razorbacks will win their fifth successive Southwest Conference championship.

After a one-day rest, the Arkansas will close their season with two games with Rice Institute at Houston. If the Arkansas win all four games, they will have won a fifth successive championship, a feat never before accomplished in Southwest Conference history.

The squad, headed by Conen ("Chuck") Bassett, includes Capt. Wear Schoonover and Roy Previtt, both playing their last year; Pickren, Holt, Crighton, Henderson, Hale, Trapp and Backus.

Ruth Is Holdout On Yankee Team

Tonny Lazzeri Unsigned, Officials Believe Contract En Route.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(P)—With Babe Ruth the only holdout, the Yankees announced the signing of 34 players, who will be taken South for the spring training trip.

The name of Tony Lazzeri was missing from the list, but Yankee officials said the little leftfielder had come to terms and that his contract was en route to the Forty-second street office.

In an effort to bring the Babe back into the fold, Col. Jacob Ruppert will leave for St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4, for a conference with the home run king. This signing of Babe may be expected within a day or two after the conference, Yankee officials say.

'Bobcats' Defeated In Two Games Here

Lose Afternoon and Night Games To Strong Team of Fouke.

By CHARLES REYNOLSON

Fauke defeated Hope yesterday afternoon and night in two basketball games. The afternoon game was hard fought. The Bobcats held Fauke 9-8 the first half but they found the basket the last half, and run the score up to 25-8. Wray and Evans did the scoring for Hope while Jinken of Fauke was the high point man. The night score was 25-11.

Fulton defeated Center Point 26-24. The Howard county boys put up a good fight after the first quarter. Piggy Wiggle run over Patma's in the third game, last night, 25-8 with Plant and Meadows starring. In the fourth game DeAnn defeated Emmett 8-6.

Friday night games will be a double header between Spring Hill and Columbus boys and girls. This will be the last time Spring Hill and Columbus will meet this year. Shover Springs and Grange Hall will also play. Hope goes to Ashdown Friday.

The county tournament will be held March 14-15. More than 20 teams will enter.

Ouachita Team Announce Schedule

Will Open Track Season With Texarkana Junior College.

ARKADELPHIA, Feb. 20.—The Ouachita College track team will open the season with Texarkana Junior College here March 28, Coach Foy Hammons has announced.

The schedule then calls for a dual meet with the University of Arkansas either in Fayetteville or Arkadelphia.

April 11, Arkansas State Teachers College at Arkadelphia.

April 18, Hendrix at Conway.

April 25, 27 or 28, State College meet, probably at Arkadelphia.

A date may be arranged between Ouachita and College of the Ozarks, Hammon said, April 7 having been mentioned tentatively.

The prospects perhaps are better than they ever have been. Hammons has the following sprinters: Ed Hopkins, Curtis Rankin, Bob Rhodes, Jimmie Hallett, Noel Adams, Teddy Jones, Steed Rountree, Thomas Queen, Baxter and Owens.

R. Baine, Steed Rountree, Arla Queen and Ighehart are his distance men. In the jumps there are John Palmer, Howard Claunch, Dick Nance, Steed Rountree, R. Baine, Robert Rhodes and Baster.

Texarkana High School Robber Is Found Asleep

TEXARKANA, Feb. 19.—Texas side police officers were called to the Texas side High School Tuesday morning with the information that during the night some one had broken into the building and knocked the knob off the safe. Nothing of value was missing, however. While the officers were investigating, the janitor hurried in and said he had found a stranger asleep in a bed in the domestic science section of the building. The police found a man sound asleep, snoring. They took him to jail, where he is held on a burglary charge. He gave his name as Floyd Campbell and said he was en route east from California, in his pockets were found a flashlight and a pair of tweezers.

Picking up in the street what looked like a white pebble Mlle. Jeanne Roynise found she had a $5.00 pearl.

Rolie Clark of St. Louis has made his living for five years by eating tacks, glass and razor blades.

Tommy Freeman To Meet Andrews

Welterweight Title Contender To Fight At Spa Friday Night.

HOT SPRINGS, Feb. 20.—Tommy Freeman, of Hot Springs, welterweight title contender, is put the finishing touches on his training program in preparation for his bout here Friday night with Louis Andrews of Memphis. Wednesday afternoon Freeman boxed four furious rounds with Charley Arthurs, New York light heavyweight. This was the third workout between this pair and they turned on the steam full force. There was no backing up or pulling of punches. Those present witnessed a slam bang affair that filled the air with boxing gloves.

At the end of the workout, Freeman pronounced himself in great shape. His road work in the mornings and the afternoon boxing sessions have placed him in the best of condition.

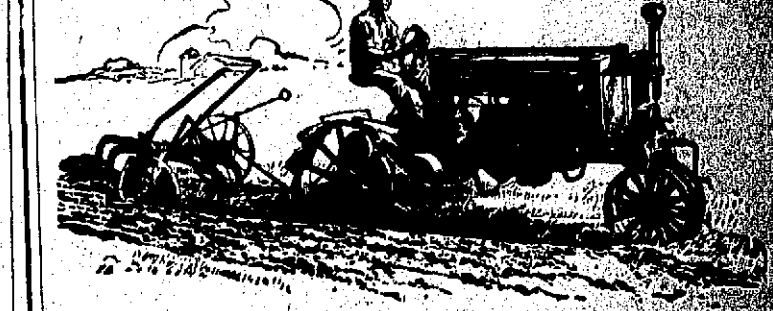

Two years ago Freeman was rated as the best welterweight in the country. Just when he was to have had a tomobile speed record, met his death when the car overturned at Daytona Beach, Fla., on April 25, 1927. It was built at a cost of $10,000 for Frank Lockhart for his use in an attempt to better the world's speed record. Lockhart was killed when the car overturned at Daytona Beach, Fla., on April 25, 1927. Albert expects the machine to be better than 150 miles an hour when he finishes tuning it up.

CHOPPING COSTS ON COTTON CROP CUT

Friday we carried a man, Mr. G. P. Robinson from Bradley, Ark., to Pine Bluff, Ark. so that he could talk to men who had been using FARMALL TRACTORS for several years, and the answers he received caused him to purchase a Farmall thirty minutes after he got back home. He talked to several men who told him that they were buying more Farmalls each year to work more land and that they were making money on the crops worked with the Farmall and were losing money on the crops worked with mules. When every banker in the town own from two to eight, it must be good and that is the condition in Jefferson County today and it is necessary that Hempstead County farms be farmed the same way if the farmers of the county expect to realize on their cotton crops.

Mr. Earl Phillips is working his place with 25 families less than he could before and made cotton at a cost that made him $39.40 per acre clear above all expense last year. His chopping costs were cut to $1.80 per acre on sandy land that grows plenty of grass. This was land that had to be fertilized to produce 1-2 a bale per acre.

Mr. Phillips' last words to Mr. Robinson was to "Buy the Farmall and get out of the wilderness."

This of course was good for us as well as Mr. Robinson, as we are more sold on the proposition than ever before.

Now is the time to make this change, not next year, as you should put this year's profits in the bank.

Power Farming School

We are going to have our first Power Farming School on Feb. 26th and 27th, and want to invite every one interested in better farming and the most profits, to come in on both days or at least for one of them.

We will show moving pictures of actual Cotton Farming and will also show the best ways to take care of tractor equipment. Our interest in this is to see that our friends get at all times the best service it is possible to obtain and we maintain large repair stocks and mechanics to see that this is done.

We are now on a 24-hour day, trying our best to see that each tractor user gets the benefit of our experience and should like to include you in this increasing list of farmers.

Just a Few Jokes.

Summer Boarder: "But why are your children, such names as Tractor, those trees bending over so far?"
Farmer: "You'd be bending over, too, miss, if you were as full of green apples as those trees are."
College Humor: "What's the reason you gave for the machine named ours, de same?"
Your children, such names as Tractor, Harvester, Thresher, and Separator?"
"Well, yo see their dad wuks for a man who says dem are de most reliable an' money makin' products any one eved had. So we put nachully named ours, de same."

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

If all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heat the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble, and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

"MURDER BACKSTAIRS"

A Thrilling New "Bonnie Dundee" Mystery Serial

Once in a blue moon someone writes it — a mystery story that's really a mystery, and yet that is as plausible as bacon and eggs for breakfast.

"Murder Backstairs," by Anne Austin, is that kind of a story. It's a thriller; it's engrossing from the first sentence to the last; and it's so logical you'll wonder why you didn't solve it at once. But you won't solve it.

"Bonnie" Dundee, the likeable young detective character whom Miss Austin introduced to her readers in "The Avenging Parrot," is back on the job in his best form, as engaging as ever, and as different from the ordinary fiction sleuth in his methods. Strawn, chief of the homicide squad, is back, too, jumping at conclusions in his own inimitable way.

"Murder Backstairs" opens with a house party at the mansion of the millionaire Berkeleys. The occasion is the announcement of the betrothal of Clorinda Berkeley and Seymour Crosby, a widower with a social background.

Dundee, who is there as a guest, and to keep an observing eye on the doubtful Crosby, senses trouble the first evening. But he is unable to forestall the tragedy.

The next morning the body of pretty Doris Matthews, lady's maid, is found in the Berkeley swimming pool.

That is the beginning. How Dundee solves the murder with nothing more tangible than perfume for a clue, makes "Murder Backstairs" as thrilling a mystery as you can hope to read.

Menus for Family

BY SISTER MARY

NEA Service Writer

THERE are many beliefs regarding the prudence of avoiding certain foods and food combinations. Many of these beliefs are based on prejudice and tradition and not on a sound knowledge of nutrition.

Persons who are in normal
health and who do not over-in-dulse in some specially liked and delicious food may enjoy any palatable combination with no misgivings. Food specialists have proven that there are no foods that must be avoided or that cannot safely be combined in the same meal.

There are, of course, some people with whom certain foods
"don't agree." When this is discovered, it is well to avoid those foods.

The "Acid Paradox"

One fallacy that is quite commonly encountered is the one that acid foods produce acidity in the system. The taste of food is no guide to its final reaction in the body, for it is only after the system has made use of its fuel that the nature of the ash can be determined. Some foods, after being digested and utilized by the body,
have an acid reaction in the blood
and others an alkaline reaction.
Although lemons and oranges are acid foods, they have an alkaline reaction, while meat, eggs and grain products have an acid reaction.

A Milk Benefit

Milk leaves an alkaline ash, so when plenty of milk is used with a cereal, the acid reaction is balanced by the alkaline reaction.

It's rather interesting to know that among the "miscellaneous"
foods, almonds, chestnuts, coconuts, molasses and mushrooms
have an alkaline reaction.

Both flavor and food values may be lost by careless cooking, so not only a knowledge of the foods necessary for daily meals but ability to apply the knowledge is essential.

Rash Romance

© 1930 NEA Service Inc. BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH CAMERON, New York
typist, married a rich man
KING, executive of the banking house where she works.
KING is a widower with a daughter, TONY, 15, and a son, JUNIOR, 10. Tony despises her father as a gold digger. Her father wishes her to marry Junior, who comes home for Christmas holidays he is equally unfriendly.

ANDY CRAIG, a young man
KING has aided, takes a position with the publishing house.
He is in love with Tony and calls on her frequently. Tony tries to convince her father that Judith and Andy are carrying on an affair and, when she fails, tricks
the girl into a compromising situation.

Tony is carrying on a flirtation
with WICKETT, a O. R. T. H. B. R., wealthy, and married. This is revealed when they are arrested at 3 a. m. for reckless driving. Tony and her father quarrel over this but the girl is finally forgiven.

KING becomes dangerously ill with pneumonia. Junior comes home and before he leaves admits to Judith he has misjudged
her. After KING begins to recuperate he accuses in proffession to Tony's company to Judith.

Tony telegrams a letter which comes for Judith. Later she follows her stepmother on a trip into the city and sees her meet a young man. She threatens to tell her father the story unless Judith goes away for two weeks and Judith goes, leaving a note for Arthur. KING's secretary reports that Andy CRAIG is missing.
Tony goes to an inconspicuous hotel on upper Broadway. She has barely reached her room when the telephone rings.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIII

THE bell rang a second time.

Startled, Judith stared at the telephone and hesitated. Then she picked up the instrument. Who in the world could be calling her?

"Hello!" she said in a low voice.

"Long distance," came the crisp voice of the operator. "Will you hold the wire please?"

Judith swayed. All at once it seemed her breath caught in her throat.

For an eternity she waited.

Then there were buzzings on the wire. She could hear the muffled tones of operators making connections. Suddenly clearly above the rest a soprano voice cut in.

"There's your party. Ready, Indianapolis?"

"Indianapolis?" Judith choked.

"Operator, who is this call for?"

"Indianapolis calling R. J. Wagner. Isn't Mr. Wagner waiting?"

the girl at the switchboard asked impatiently.

"There's some mistake! There's —there's no Mr. Wagner here."

"What number is your room
please?"

"This is Room 419."

For a moment there was no sound. Then:

"Sorry, madam. The call is for Room 1419. Excuse it, please."

With a limp sigh Judith set down the telephone. Oh, what a shock that had been!

She put one hand to her head and brushed her hair back with a nervous little gesture which she had acquired recently. Her heart was still pumping too fast. Of course she had hoped the call was from Arthur.

Fifteen minutes later she had
turned out the light and climbed
into bed. She still wore the lock-
et. Judith stared with eyes wide open at the black ceiling. The bed
was stiff and uncomfortable, so different from the downy one to which she was accustomed. She stirred uneasily, found her original position was better and moved again.

Surely Arthur had read her letter
by this time. What was he thinking?

It was singular that in all her
misery and loneliness Judith gave little thought to Tony. Tony KING
had been directly responsible for
her banishment and yet Judith did
not reproach the girl.

After all, it was not Tony who
made Judith's plight serious. It was the truth of the facts which Tony knew.

The little room on the court was stuffy and ill ventilated. Judith tossed sleeplessly for what seemed to be hours. At last she drifted
into troubled slumber.

IT was such a little room! Judith moved to the window and peered outside. The court was lanky blackness. Up above her a few lights were twinkling. She pulled the shade farther down and faced about.

Her traveling bag stood on the floor, just where the bell boy had left it. Judith set it on a chair, snapped the lock open and drew out her meager supplies. The powder and toilet requirements she placed on the dressing table. There were no frocks to be hung away.
She laid pajamas and a silk robe
upon the bed. The dark metal box which had been one of the last things Judith had stowed in the bag caught her eye. She lifted it out.

Judith sat on the bed and held the box in her lap. She turned a key which opened the lock, pushed the lid back and lifted out a pile of letters.

There was something else inside
the box. She fumbled under a collection of papers until she found it.
The object was a small old-fashioned gold locket and attached to it was a chain.

The locket was oval in shape,
heavily engraved, and made in two parts. Judith pressed her thumbnail against a tiny gold knob. The locket opened.

A miniature photograph was revealed on either side. One was a young man, though the photograph undoubtedly had been made years ago. The other showed a small boy, with dark curling hair and attractive features.

"Father!" Judith moaned. "Oh, father—!" She buried her head in the pillows and lay there, shoulders
shaking with sobs.

Gradually she grew quieter. It was 15 minutes before the girl raised her head, dried her eyes and began to pack the letters away.
When she came to the locket she held it in her hand and touched it lovingly. Then she slipped it about her throat and fastened the clasp.

It was nearly seven o'clock but Judith had forgotten about dinner.
Since there seemed nothing else to do she removed her frock, hung it away and made preparations for the night.

Fifteen minutes later she had
turned out the light and climbed
into bed. She still wore the lock-
et. Judith stared with eyes wide
open at the black ceiling. The bed
was stiff and uncomfortable, so different from the downy one to which
she was accustomed. She stirred
uneasily, found her original position was better and moved again.

Surely Arthur had read her letter
by this time. What was he thinking?

It was singular that in all her
misery and loneliness Judith gave
little thought to Tony. Tony KING
had been directly responsible for
her banishment and yet Judith did
not reproach the girl.

After all, it was not Tony who
made Judith's plight serious. It
was the truth of the facts which Tony knew.

The little room on the court was stuffy and ill ventilated. Judith
tossed sleeplessly for what seemed
to be hours. At last she drifted
into troubled slumber.

WHEN she awoke the room was still dark. Judith blinked her eyes, closed them, then opened them once more. For a frightened instant she could not remember where she was. She sat up, startled.

Gradually the past day's adventures came back to her. Like a flash it was all clear in her mind.
Of course! The drive with Tony—the girl's ultimatum—hasty packing—the note to Arthur—catching the train—this hotel.

So here she was and her exile was not a dream. It was tragically true. She was separated from Arthur and only fate could say when she should see him again.

Was it morning? Judith rubbed her eyes and wondered. She felt as though she had slept a long while,
but she was still tired and nestled
in the bed covers, loath to move.

At last she sat up and put one foot out on the cold floor. She went to the window and raised the shade.

The hands of her watch pointed to 11:30 o'clock.

Yes, the little watch was ticking.
It really must be that late.

Judith felt that she must hurry to get dressed. At home since Arthur's illness she had slipped into the lazy habit of sleeping until 8:30. But 11:30—!

Hot water, then cold water splashed in the bowl. Quickly Judith pulled on undergarments,
stockings and pumps. She combed and brushed her hair and dusted her face with powder. Lastly she slid the jersey frock over her head and fastened the little old-fashioned locket about her neck.

Was there the slightest trace of defiance in her face as she did this?
Judith's head ached dreadfully. It occurred to her this might be the result of hunger. Then she remembered she had no dinner the evening before.

When she had slipped on hat and coat and picked up her purse, she stopped to make a survey of the room. She stepped back and raised the window to its full height. Then she went out of the room and locked the door.

She noted on the way to the elevator that daylight did not improve the appearance of the hotel. Corridors were dark and the paint cracked.

A wheezy rattle indicated that the elevator was rising. Judith stepped inside, said "good morning"
to the gray-haired man who operated the car and rode to the ground floor. There she left her key at the desk and went out on the street.

Stagehand Enacts Play In Real Life; Kills Wife, and Self

ORLEANS, France, Feb. 20.—A touring theatrical company played a melodrama in which the hero, rejected in love, became insane, killed his sweetheart, then committed suicide.

After the performance, a stage hand, Mathurin Rochard, quarreled with his wife, employed as the cook to the company. He accused his wife of infidelity and in a fit of passion strangled her with a cord. Rochard then went back of stage and hanged himself with the same piece of rope.

Bobbed Hair Problem Still Live In London

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Hard working stenographers who can't decide even now whether to "let it grow"
may be comforted to know that tilted heads are in the same anguish.

Hair is still a major problem in feminine circles about London.
The season's edict that only long tresses are proper has resulted in revolt.

West End hairdressers report that every day they clip scores of hard grown fringes intended to become heavy crowning glories.

The Butler

Wickett might know a thing or two about the murder of Doris Matthews, the police theorized. "Wickett" was the butler for the millionaire "Berkeleys." Doris was a lady's maid. Both had worked together for another family
before joining the "Berkeley" household. Read all about it in "Murder Backstairs," Hope Star's thrilling new serial. It begins Tuesday.

HOW ONE MAN ENDED "RHEUMATISM"

Stomach Troubles, and Built up
His Strength At The Same Time

There is a way to get rid of rheumatism pains along with pains in the stomach, back and sides—
and until you try it you can blame
only yourself for your suffering.
It's through the use of the remarkable medicine Tanale that for years have been in their for taken the trouble to write us. His name is Mr. B. F. Bur-base, Mr. Burbase, a transfer man, and lived for 16 years in a rheumatism and he had just about despaired when he last resort he tried Tanale. "It could hardly move about or raise my arms up to go up or down stairs it would seem like my knees would break. The pain hurt awful and crippled me up. Besides, rheumatism, my digestion was bad and I was rundown generally. It was a mighty big handicap in my business. Finally I began Tanale and it won the bout for me. It began at once to overcome my muscular rheumatism and now have not an ache or pain and am a well and new man. I recommend Tanale with unbounded confidence." Other remedies may promise but Tanale claims with a guarantee. Accept no substitute. At all druggists.

MILWAUKEE MAN SUES

FOR BEER MUGS' RETURN

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 20.—Four beer mugs, one of which is described as "having much sentimental value" are sought in a law suit filed here by Ernest Reichel.

Reichel charges in his suit that his sister, Mrs. Vera Prengel, took the mugs, as well as some other valuable articles such as paintings and theatrical books, in 1927 and that she refused to return them to him.

Church Replaces Movie For Atlanta Mill Hands

ATLANTA, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A church has succeeded where a movie theatre failed in Atlanta's populous textile mill district.

The Immanuel Baptist church, which itself failed before it became a movie house, has become prosperous because its new pastor, the Rev. E. P. Glor, financed it.

He signed $7,000 in personal notes and served eight years without pay so Baptists of the mill section might have a church.

Governor Trumbull's Tumble

This first exhibition of gubernatorial gliding—staged by Connecticut's flying governor, John H. Trumbull—had a near disastrous finish when his sailplane crashed at the Newark, N. J., airport. He is shown just before he took off with his motorless craft hitched by cable to an automobile. Fifteen feet off the ground, as shown in the picture at the top, his feet slipped off the rudder and the ship went into a nose dive. Lower right you see him after the crash when, only slightly injured, he was assisted from the field.

The Usual Things

It is difficult to imagine the world today without some of the things that make our living in it so pleasant and comfortable. How naturally we lift the telephone receiver, step into an automobile, and look for the news of the world in the newspaper—every day of our lives.

Another of these usual, invaluable things, accepted as part of the routine of existence, is the guidance given by the advertisements in this newspaper in supplying our wants from day to day. We read them. They help us to save time and money. And our lives go on—more easily and more fully.

Every day the advertisements suggest ways in which we can get things we want with the greatest possible satisfaction to ourselves. They tell us of new conveniences and comforts of which we would not otherwise have known. They help us to get down-to-the-dollar satisfaction. They assure us of proved values.

Advertisements are among the necessities today . . . read them regularly
